U.S. consumer guide awards 1 to 5 stars

Medicare's Five Star ratings give consumers, for the first time, a national system to compare the quality of care at 16,000 U.S. nursing homes.

The www.medicare.gov/nhcompare site will be updated four times a year. The ratings measure how centers perform on state inspections, giving lower scores to those needing return visits to correct deficiencies. They also measure ratios of registered nurses and nurse aides to residents and 10 quality measurements, including the percentage of patients in restraints, with pressure sores and who have moderate to severe pain.

Sixteen nursing homes in tri-county metro Detroit received top grades.
